Three User Types

Business Drivers for ECM – 2004-2007

We are Not Starting from Scratch

85% of companies manage more than one CM repository

We are Not Starting from Scratch

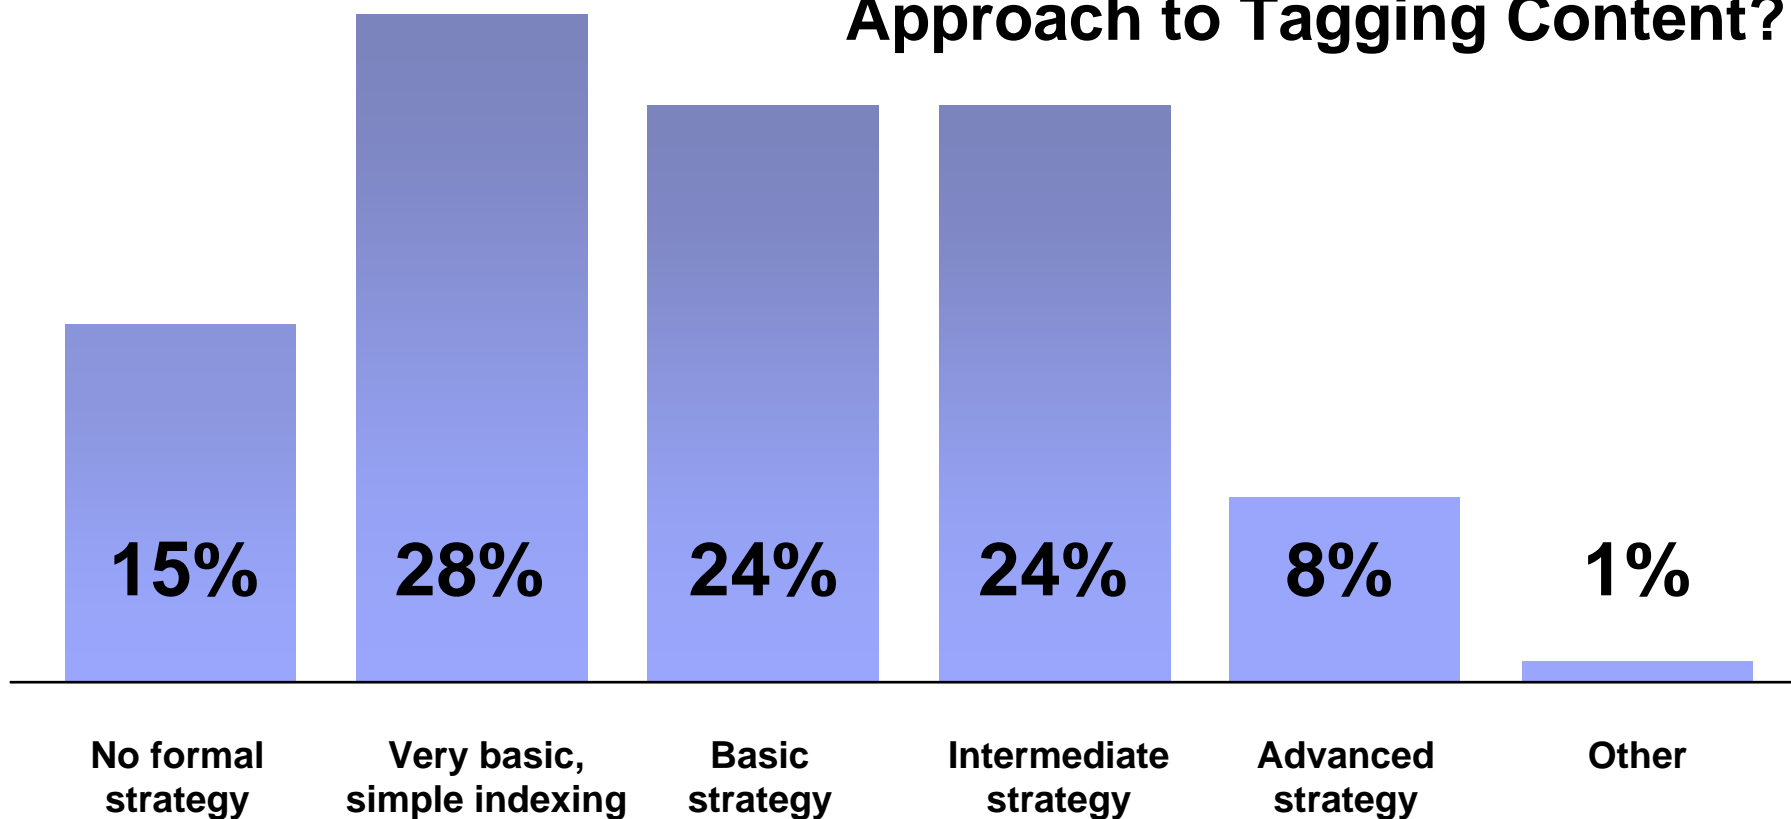

Gartner - Toby Bell – “A typical company has five to 20 different content management systems and repositories, with the result that users don't know about content in other parts of the enterprise that might be useful, or they can't access it”

We are Not Starting from Scratch

67% of companies have a basic metadata strategy at best

Approach to Tagging Content?

IBM ECM Product Strategy Guiding Principles

1

Active Content

Delivery of information unified, accurate, and in context. Extend content objects to include broader metadata needs.

2

Business Agility

Core BPM services within SOA to support componentized application development. Critical business artifacts reusable across the enterprise.

3

Enterprise Compliance

Compliance & records management services embedded in the infrastructure. Security, access and authorization implemented to manage risk.

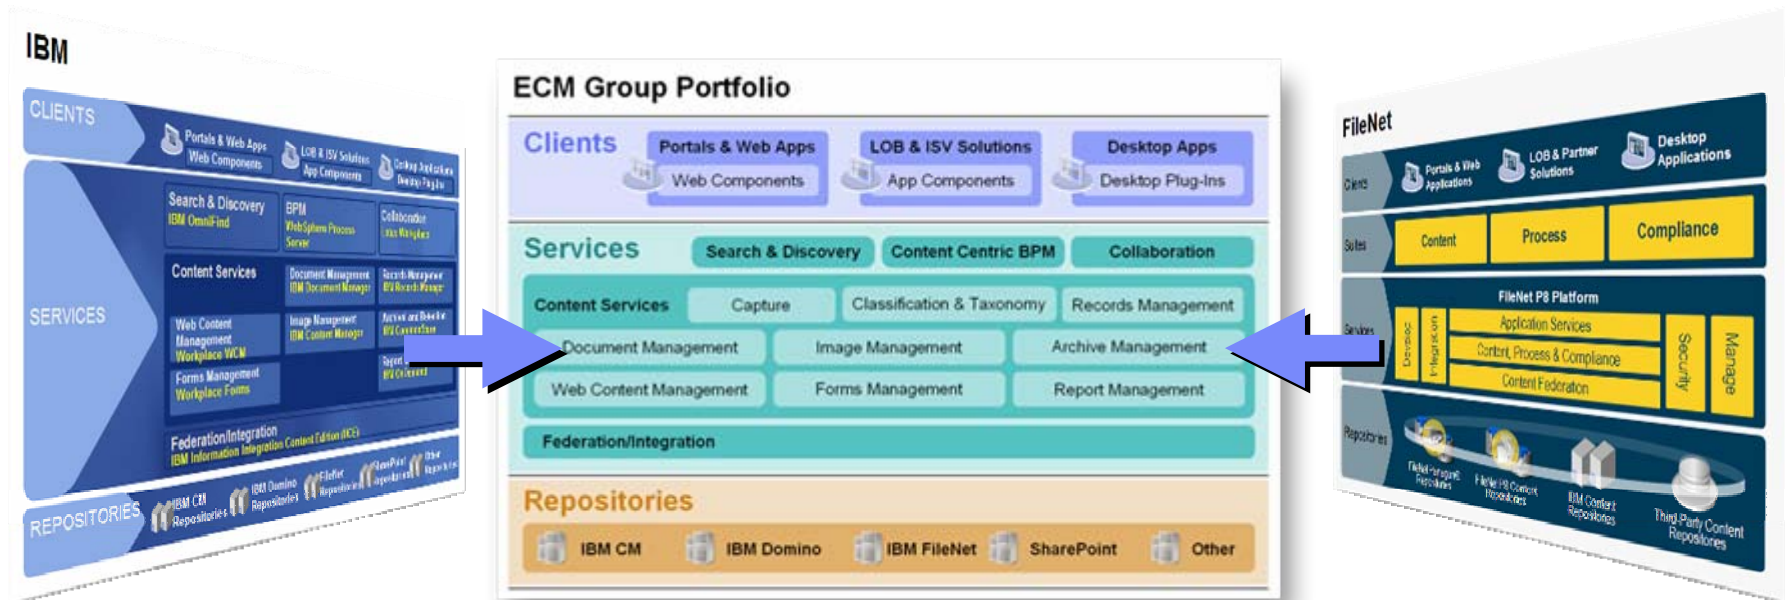

4

Content Anywhere

Content and catalog integration to allow for managing of content anywhere without content migration required.
