IBM Design Thinking

Human-centered outcomes at speed and scale

Design is the intent
behind an outcome.

Understand people's needs.

Form intent.

Deliver outcomes
at speed and scale.

Align on intent.

Great outcomes begins with a shared understanding of intent.

Hills are statements of intent written as meaningful user outcomes. They tell you where to go, not how to get there.

The Keys | Hills

Get everyone in the loop.

Not everyone has time to be in every loop.
Don't let your teams fall out of sync.

Playbacks are a time to reflect together.
Bring your extended team and stakeholders
into the loop in a safe, inclusive space.

The Keys | Playbacks

Break the empathy barrier.

Empathy can only take you so far. If you're not a pilot, you'll never know how it feels to land an airliner.

Sponsor Users are users or potential users who bring their lived experience and domain expertise as a team participant.

The Keys | Sponsor Users

We invite you to become a Sponsor User.

Make together with us.

A Sponsor User is not a passive subject— they are active participants who work alongside our teams to help us design experiences for real target users rather than imagined needs.

Sponsor User Program

Become part of our team.

We invite you into our Playbacks. Help us refine our Hills with your feedback. Contribute your own ideas, express your thoughts, and bring your domain expertise to the table.

Sponsor User Program

What to expect.

Activities can include IBM Design Thinking workshops, sneak peeks into our latest offerings, participatory design, surveys, user testing, contextual inquiries, and migration planning and support.

Notes

Performance is in Internal Throughput Rate (ITR) ratio based on measurements and projections using standard IBM benchmarks in a controlled environment. The actual throughput that any user will experience will vary depending upon considerations such as the amount of multiprogramming in the user's job stream, the I/O configuration, the storage configuration, and the workload processed. Therefore, no assurance can be given that an individual user will achieve throughput improvements equivalent to the performance ratios stated here.

All customer examples cited or described in this presentation are presented as illustrations of the manner in which some customers have used IBM products and the results they may have achieved. Actual environmental costs and performance characteristics will vary depending on individual customer configurations and conditions.
