Session Abstract

O18 Non-HPC Linux Clusters
       by Dan Cummings

This session describes the use of Linux Cluster technologies in non HPC applications.   Some of the applications covered include scalable application servers and parallel database servers. Specific technology areas covered include load balancing, high availability, virtual IP failover and cluster management in a non-HPC context.