

Terabytes of data,
millions of files,
hundreds of users.

No worries.

What if that was your storage solution?

It would mean you could focus on providing better service to the e-customer. After all, your data is your most valuable corporate asset. So, managing the information that drives your business success is a top priority. But that data is also dynamic – users throughout your company need to be able to access it and store it securely and effectively. Tivoli® Storage Manager provides answers – delivering true end-to-end data protection for your storage environment, including a suite of data protection products for applications and databases.
