Ensure business continuity with IBM Software Subscription and Support.

Access and deploy the latest technology just when you need it.

Businesses are under more pressure than ever to deliver better results in an increasingly tough economic environment. You need to reduce risk, uncover savings, improve processes and ensure business continuity without fail. All to better serve customers.

This is why IBM invests over $6 billion every year—to develop new software technologies and enhancements for the IBM software that you are currently using, which can make it easier to connect with customers and business partners. We want to help you handle increasing complexities as well as take advantage of new opportunities.

With IBM Software Subscription and Support (S&S), you can do all that and more. Our technical professionals and ongoing product enhancements can help you get the most out of the IT investments that you have already made in IBM software:

- The latest updates for your software at your convenience. You'll be up to date and equipped to explore new opportunities, whenever you're ready to do so.

- Easy access to technical support via phone or Internet. From installation and configuration assistance to hints and tips for maximum system efficiency—our experts and online resources are there to help you.

▶ Learn more at ibm.com/software/subscriptionandsupport

IBM Software Subscription and Support

Topline benefits:
- Protects your software investment
- Increases user and IT productivity with access to updated cross-platform software and technical support
- Reduces overall software costs

Get timely upgrades for virtually all IBM software, including:
- Business Analytics
- Enterprise Content Management
- Industry Solutions
- Information Management
- Lotus®
- Rational®
- Security Software
- Tivoli®
- WebSphere®

IBM Software Subscription

- Protects your IT environment
- Ensures quicker return on investment through faster deployment
- Provides access to new releases of your licensed IBM software
- Helps reduce software lifecycle costs
- Includes optional notification of new product releases and technical support updates

IBM Technical Support

- Gives you 24/7 access to technical support around the world, in your language, for fast problem resolution
- Enables online technical support through electronic service requests
- Includes access to the IBM support portal for enhanced self-help and search capabilities

IBM Passport Advantage® and IBM Software Accelerated Value Program

Passport Advantage is a comprehensive IBM program that uses a common set of agreements, processes and tools. It covers software license acquisition, IBM Software Subscription and Support, IBM Appliances and IBM SaaS subscriptions.

IBM Software Accelerated Value Program complements and interlocks with IBM Software S&S to ensure an enhanced and personalized support experience. It can provide services such as on-site technical assistance, priority support call routing, single point-of-contact and much more to increase business productivity while reducing operational costs.

The Bottom Line

Technology and enterprises are never static. Today's requirements are different from tomorrow's. That's why you need to invest in technology that can help you evolve, innovate and stay ahead of the competition.

With IBM Software Subscription and Support, you can capitalize on emerging opportunities and respond quickly to emergencies with expert help.

Get the most value from your software investments. Renew your IBM Software Subscription and Support for every product, every year.

▶ Learn more at ibm.com/software/subscriptionandsupport