Since IBM® DB2® Version 8 was withdrawn from marketing in April 2012, many DB2 users began to look at migration to DB2 10—if they can do more with less, that is, reduce costs and improve performance. IT shops want CPU savings that can impact the bottom line.

Webcast

Join us for a complimentary webcast presented by the International DB2 Users Group (IDUG). Our speakers will highlight and share customer experiences with DB2 10, best practices and lessons learned by early adopters of IBM DB2 10 from members of the IDUG community. IDUG is an independent user group for IBM DB2 family of products and it supports the DB2 community. The group is perceived as a thought leader in the data management marketplace. This webcast will be presented by two well-known independent DB2 consultants who have a wealth of experience working with DB2 customers and users.
